Carver—Bennett in runoff

Democrat primary

BY JAKE JACOB

Harry Farve of District 3, a black, became the first member of the state's first Mayor-Council form of government Wednesday, after the Democratic Election Commission certified results of Tuesday's first primary election.

Polling 325 votes, to his opponent's

110, Farve was declared the District 3 Democratic candidate elect with his name to appear on the General Election ballot, June 7. Without opposition in that race, Farve thus became assured of ultimate victory.

A full breakdown of voting in the primary appears on Page 1-B of this issue.

Three other candidates were also declared as the Democratic representatives from their individual districts, but all face opposition from one or more candidates in the general election.

Named to appear on the general election ballot without benefit of having to undergo a second Democratic primary were: Councilman-at-large, Wilmer E. Seymour, who polled the highest vote of the day with 1314; District 2, James Thriftley, III, (who also received one write-in vote for mayor) who polled 428; Councilman District 4, Sheldon Seuzeneau, 375; and Farve.

In the mayor's race, incumbent mayor Warren Carver outscored his rivals but faces a run-off race with one of the incumbent commissioners, Larry Bennett, in the second primary Tuesday, May 17.

Carver received the approval of 605 voters to serve another term, but Bennett trailed just a few, scant tallying back at 555.

Two other mayoralty candidates were eliminated in the primary. Incumbent utilities Commissioner Lucien Kidd, received 533 votes in his favor, outpolled by John K. McKenna, leader of the drive for the government form change, who scored 540.

Easterly Yachts to set sail in Port Bienville

BY JAKE JACOB

Easterly Yachts, Inc. division of Halter Marine is ready to move to Hancock County.

Mike Brennan, plant manager for Easterly, said Saturday he expected the move to begin "within a couple of weeks."

Easterly is to settle into the former Coastal Millwork Building at Port Bienville, a structure in the process of being purchased by the county and leased to Halter.

Brennan was in Waveland over the weekend both to survey the area and talk to his former Loyola classmate, John Longo, Jr., mayor.

Longo responded by issuing a welcome to the new industry and took Brennan on a tour of his city.

Brennan said Easterly Yachts was sold to Halter in January of this year. Since that time Halter has decided on an expansion and production program that will far exceed the capability of the company's present facility in Covington, hence the need to move.

Upon transfer here, the company will employ 22 key people, transferring with them from Covington, but will need to increase its work force by eight immediately.

Initial production will center on the manufacture of 38 foot sailboats and the Court issues order against Aquarius Spa

The Hancock Chancery Court has issued a temporary order against the Aquarius Health Spa and its owner, Shirley Tarzetti, in a case filed by Attorney General A. F. Summer under the state's Consumer Protection law.

The effect of the court's order was to stop the Bay St. Louis Health Spa from attempting to collect any future membership payments from Gulf Coast consumers and from engaging in any deceptive acts or practices.

Attorney General Summer said that the hearing for permanent relief he had requested to cancel consumers' contracts and to refund their money will be held in the next term of court on June 20. Aquarius Health Spa is charged by the Attorney General with deception under the Consumer Protection law by selling lifetime memberships to the public and then closing - thereby failing to provide promised services.

The Court ordered the Spa to provide the Attorney General with a list of all persons who purchased memberships and the amount each has paid.

Compretta named school probe group

Incidental fees being charged directly to students and the quality and quantity of instructional materials being provided by school systems to both teachers and students are to form the topic of special state House subcommittee.

State Representative J. P. Compretta of Hancock County has been selected to serve on the subcommittee to be chaired by Rep. Richard Tedford, by Rep. George W. Rogers of Vicksburg, chairman of the House Education Committee. Rogers is also a member of the Apportionment and Elections Appropriations and Judiciary "B" house committees, and the Central Data Processing Authority.

In requesting Compretta to serve on the new subcommittee Rogers states:

"I am asking you to serve on a special subcommittee on student fees, purchases and instructional materials."

"As you can see, the scope of this committee's study will encompass the subject matter of the so-called 'ring' bill, but is intended to be much broader."

"Information that I have is that there are too many incidental fees being charged students and that adequate instructional materials are not being furnished by the schools, either to the teachers or the students."

Rogers suggests the eight subcommittee members contact their local schools prior to the calling of their first session to acquaint themselves with these procedures first.

"As preparation for the work of this subcommittee, I would suggest that

Several hundred people were on hand Saturday afternoon to take part in the "Blessing of the Fleet" as Pass

Christian renewed a tradition which has been abandoned for the past 15 years in the Harrison County city.

Sanitation report may take lunch off menu at HNCentral

BY JAKE JACOB

Hancock North Central School, plagued with problems over the past few years, this week faced the loss of all government subsidies to its lunch room program in the 1977-78 school year and possible loss of accreditation due to an unfavorable health department report. The report, issued by Louis Fernandez, county sanitation supervisor, states his department will be unable to issue a certificate of approval to the school unless the violations are corrected.

Mildred P. Switzer, R.D., cafeteria supervisor, brought the situation to light recently when, utilizing the report as an appendix to her presentation to the board, Report and Recommendations of the Cafeteria Supervisor.

Other exhibits included by Switzer showed Gulfview School, Lakeshore, and C. B. Murphy, Pearllington, both scoring a 100 percent in their health and sanitation inspections.

Superintendent of Schools Terrell Randolph said this week that he intended to institute a program of corrective action at North Central in an attempt to overcome the deficiencies.

In his report, Fernandez said: "Due to the large number of students eating in this cafeteria there are not adequate refrigeration units, hot food storage units, and also dry storage spaces to maintain produce temperature and protection. This especially includes potentially hazardous food temperature requirements during storage, preparation (properly thawed), display and service."

"Need to replace utensils with food-contact surfaces that are free of breaks, open seams, cracks, chips, pits, and difficult to clean internal corners and crevices. This includes pots, pans, cooking and serving utensils."

"Need to properly install the drain pipe to the ice machine so that there is no cross-connection."

"Need to keep all hoses off the floor so as to prevent a possible back siphonage into the potable water system. This includes hoses inside the kitchen as well as outside the kitchen."

"Toilet and locker room doors need to be kept closed. The locker room is not to be used for a food storage area. Soap and single use towels are to be kept at the handsink in the kitchen."

"An adequate number of covered garbage and refuse containers or receptacles are needed."

"Need to adequately screen all windows, and replace damaged screens where needed."

"Adequate ventilation is needed for both the entire food service area as well as for equipment causing excessive heat, steam, condensation, vapor, smoke, and fumes. Excessive heat has been noted both in the spring as well as in the fall."

Fernandez said the school's food service personnel are to be commended for doing a fine job with the limited facilities at hand and he stressed again that his department is mainly concerned with the lack of facilities to maintain food temperature and food protection in the mass feeding operation.

REV. JOHN T. O'BRIEN, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic Church in Pass Christian blesses the fleet during ceremonies last Saturday in Pass Christian. The tradition was abandoned some 15 years ago and was renewed last week and will be conducted as an annual affair. "KING RICHARD" THE RICHARD PETTY STORY BY Bill Libby with Richard Petty Richard Petty is stock car racing's number-one superstar and all-time top money winner. He's not only won more races than anyone else, he's also won more Driver of the Year titles and Daytona 500's. He's overtaken his racing father's footsteps and grown into a legend. Here, in this straightforward and candid portrait, he tells the story behind his rise to the top in a freewheeling, dangerous world where he reigns supreme among people who wager it all in the thrill of the race.

He describes what it means to be a hero in the most dangerous sport of all, how he wins his races, the kind of car he likes to drive, and how he drives it. And he lets us glimpse two sides of the Petty personality: driver - ruthless, alert, speeding down the track to win at almost any cost; and the man - gentle, unpretentious, devoted to his family and gracious to his fans.

Here too, in fascinating detail, is a history of stock car racing and its most famous stars, plus a look at the business side of racing with its emphasis on sponsors like STP. Against a backdrop of thrilling victories and fiery crashes, we get to know Petty's chief competitors, his family and his race - "I learn how they feel about him, as both a person and an athlete."

DOZENS OF WAYS TO MAKE MONEY by Yvonne Michie Horn.

Hundreds of young entrepreneurs contributed to Dozens of Ways to Make Money. They live in all parts of the country, in towns big and small. What they have in common is job imagination - the ability to turn a unique idea into cash.

These young entrepreneurs shared their ideas with the author. Some responded through a questionnaire sent to high schools from Maine to California, a questionnaire that asked, "Do you make money from a job you thought up yourself?" Others came to the attention of the author when their activities were featured in newspaper accounts. Still others made the book by word of mouth: "You should talk to so-and-so - she has the best idea and it's making money!"

MEC to set programs

Six Mississippi Economic Council committees meet in Jackson May 25 as MEC begins work on programs for its 29th year.

A seventh committee will meet May 24 in Jackson.

MEC - the State Chamber of Commerce - will plan the year's committee activities during its general assembly at the Holiday Inn Downtown. The new MEC president, Greenwood businessman J. Howard Lewis, will preside over the session.

"We have a great deal we wish to accomplish this year," said Lewis. "Our system relies heavily on our committees, so we thought it would be best if we met together so that our work could be coordinated."

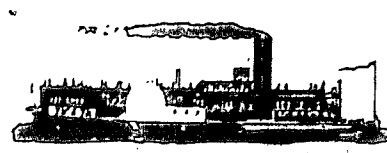

The session will begin with a noon luncheon, followed by individual committee meetings. During the separate gatherings, the various committees will discuss their assignments for the next 12 months and plan their actions.

Meeting May 25 will be the Business Climate, Economic Development, Education, Free Enterprise, Leadership Mississippi, and State and Local Government Committees. The Member Relations panel will gather May 24.

"Each of these committees has been given specific assignments in our Program of Work for the year," said Lewis. "There are many different areas, such as taxation, education, and natural and human resources, which they must deal."

The committees are composed of MEC members from across the state. The committees complete their action on the year's assignment and report their findings or recommendations to the Board of Directors, the MEC governing body.

We were all geared to warn motorists to take special care while driving around children on bikes, but our warning is coming a little too late for a couple of children in Waveland. A Saturday accident injured two kids, but thankfully no one was killed. Each summer children (and adults also) hit the streets with their bikes to enjoy the outdoor life and a carefree ride in the sunshine. Most of the time they enjoy the surroundings too much to pay attention to cars and trucks. That's where we as drivers should take a very strict warning to be on the lookout for those with wandering minds and non attention payers. When you approach a bike rider, slow down and don't be ashamed to sound your horn as a warning. Also sound your horn well in advance so as not to frighten the rider and cause yet another accident.

As we offer a warning to drivers, we will also issue the same warning to the riders. And speaking of riders, we have noticed a lot of youngsters doing a lot of wrong things as they travel on their bikes. They ride with, instead of against, the traffic, dart into and across the streets and speed in and out of crowded parking lots and shopping centers. They also have a habit of riding on the sidewalk which was made for walking.

Some group or organization needs to undertake a bicycle safety school with instructions and safety checks.

In the mean time, slow down and keep your eyes open for the biker...BLOW THAT HORN!

In the next few weeks, we will send a large number of Seniors from our high schools out into the world. For some, it will be a time of marriage, a job and the end of schooling; others will continue their education on a higher level and still others may join the service. What ever your selection for the future, we offer our best and good wishes for a successful life.

In line with our graduation time, we offer the following:

Your true strength is YOU. When you fail, don't quit. Count on your own inner resources to pull you through. Follow Thomas Edison's example.

Edison, one of the greatest inventors ever, was totally deaf. A reporter once asked him if his deafness wasn't a great handicap. "On the contrary," Edison answered, "deafness has been a great asset to me. It has saved me from a lot of useless chatter and it has taught me to hear from within."

Edison never suffered from frustrations, fears or regrets, yet he met with 10,000 failures before he perfected the incandescent light. He never gave up. He simply continued to tap his inner resources and the power of his own mind.

Successful people like Edison concentrate on future objectives. They don't dwell on the past, or defeats or on disappointments.

You don't have to be deaf to succeed! The key is to be in tune with yourself and to get away from it all occasionally so that you can experience solitude.

Your inner strength comes to the fore best when you enjoy your own company.

Then, when you are refueled with the power of your own mind and heart, you can climb mountains!

There has been a lot of vandalism in the area recently and it would be wise to help law enforcement officials by reporting any suspicious vehicles or people in and around such places as schools, businesses and public buildings.

Keep your nose to the grindstone, ear to the ground, shoulder to the wheel, sunny side up and whistle while you work!

Have a nice day.

AG Reports misleading land sales

Six Gulf Coast land development promotion companies were sued today by Attorney General A.F. Summer for using deceptive and misleading sales practices in violation of Mississippi's Consumer Protection Act. Defendants named in the case were Blue Lake Corporation, Biloxi River Retreat Village, Gulf Breeze, Inc., Anchor Lake Resort, and the River Estates and Southern Corporation.

The complaint, filed in the Harrison County Chancery Court in Gulfport, Mississippi charges that the company and its agents sent out "check-like" notices to the public in Mississippi and other states claiming it would pay cash to those persons who owned other land in Florida if they would come to its office in Gulfport, when in truth no cash was actually ever intended to be paid by the company. Instead the land developers attempted to sell and did sell lots at their own development at highly inflated prices by using various misrepresentations and misleading statements.

The Attorney General alleged that many people from over Mississippi had traveled to Gulfport and were falsely led to believe that they were receiving a negotiable check for $5,000 which they later found could not be cashed anywhere. Many of these consumers purchased lots after being pressured by the company's land sellers and after being told that only one or two lots were left when actually there were many for sale.

Also named in the suit were individual corporate agents, Nicholas Elliott, James Smith, Daniel J. Dawson, James W. Batson, Tim Sharp, Arnett Ladner, Joe Spencer, and Alan Ogle. The Attorney General complained additionally that land and real estate was being sold without the proper real estate license issued from the Mississippi Real Estate Commission as required by law.

Attorney General Summer asked the Court to issue an injunction ordering the Defendants to stop those practices, pay civil penalties of $500 for each violation, and to make refunds to consumers who had purchased lots as a result of the fraudulent, deceptive and misleading acts.

Harrison County Chancellor John S. Morris issued an order setting the case for hearing on May 20, 1977 in Gulfport.

Washington Report

CONGRESSIONAL RED INK

WASHINGTON, D.C. - It's budget time, and once again the Congress is finding it hard to put the lid on spending. Two weeks ago my colleagues and I defeated the First Concurrent Budget Resolution because we just couldn't swallow such a large amount of deficit spending. This past week it passed over my objections by a vote of 213-to-179 with a $66.8 billion deficit.

In 1974 the Congress came up with a very bright idea. For years the Presidents had impounded funds that the Congress had appropriated for different projects. The Congress decided that since it had appropriated the money, it should decide when funding should be cut off. We adopted the Budget Impoundment Control Act which removed the ability to impound funds from the hands of the President and gave Congress the responsibility of establishing a budget. It was a good idea because it was a means of making us look at what we are spending.

Unfortunately, it isn't working out as well as I had hoped. Though the plan was a good one in theory, the free-spending Congress has violated the Act more times than I care to recall. One of the provisions of the Act requires that the budget be set before bills can be considered by the Congress for authorization. This has been waived time and time again, whenever convenient. An example of this occurred just the other day when the House considered the State Department Authorization. Technically we should not have been able to take up this matter until we had set the budget limitations for Fiscal Year 1978. But we not only considered it, we passed it, before we'd even had time to take up the revised Budget Resolution.

When we adopted the Act we all thought that it would keep costs down, put a lid on spending, and help reduce the deficit. It has failed on all three counts. Instead we've found that costs are soaring, the lid on spending is so high that it becomes a target for departments and agencies to shoot at, and the deficit grows ever larger. The first resolution that we considered had a budget deficit of $5.8 billion. In addition, every Committee report is required by the Act to have a section on the inflationary impact of its budget request upon the economy. Most of these, naturally, tend to play down the impact in the hope that they'll get their budget request. Yet, when you add all of these small percentages up, it becomes a very expensive package.

The worst part of all of this is that the funds in this year's budget are inadequate for certain vital programs such as our national defense. Somehow it seems to me that our priorities aren't quite right when we can't even provide our defense system with adequate funding to maintain a balance with the Russians.

I firmly believe that self-restraint is necessary if we are going to balance the budget. The Budget Impoundment Control Act was and still is a good one in theory. I voted for it in 1974, and I would again today. But only because I think that it is necessary that Congress keep a check on its own spending, and I hope that my colleagues in the Congress impose these self-constraints so that we can continue on the road to economic recovery.

and our council doesn't care, and take the clean up of this city in our hands?

Take for your slogan a little dead gold fish, covered with filth and slime it had no reason to expect at your hands, Bay St. Louis... and fight for a better police, a better government and no mercy to juvenile delinquents.

Dear Sir:

Nineteen years ago when I moved to this neighborhood, traffic regulations were enforced and it was safe to ride or walk on the streets. Since that time traffic has gradually deteriorated to the point where it is non-existent. Prior to 1959 "Slow Children Playing" signs were placed on Piney Ridge Road. This was a good idea since retirees and children rode bicycles on Piney Ridge Road as well as other streets in the neighborhood. For awhile motorists heeded the signs but for the past two years, with few exceptions, they are driving by these signs at 25 to 30 M.P.H. Now anyone walking or riding a bicycle on Piney Ridge Road does so at the risk of losing his or her life. Among the worst offenders are two auto mechanics who either can't read or don't give a darn about traffic signs. Since the Waveland Police are either unable or unwilling to issue tickets to the morons who are violating traffic laws, they should be replaced. Before the 1969 hurricane there was a traffic sign at Sears and Gulf Drive indicating a left turn. This sign should be replaced as it is needed by visitors returning home from Buccanier Park. Very truly yours, E.N. Canady Waveland, Ms.

Letters to the editor

Editor's Note: Mrs. Elise Beauchamp who lives at McDonald Lane became upset when she read of vandals' activities after a Pet Shop Break-In. Below is her letter seeking retribution.

To the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, Miss 39520

Sir: They were only gold fish. Two to three inch long; givers of joy to children and invalids and people who care; iridescent golden, flashing glances of beauty, flashing, swimming, diving, living in clear, clean, fresh water, bubbling from it's spigot, temperature controlled, secure and serene. They trusted their owners. They gave of their beauty in return.

And then the pack came. (Juvenile delinquents - vandals) The pack of mongrels, the dealers in destruction. The haters of beauty. The givers of pain. And they looked at the little goldfish, swimming clean and free and safe in their happy prison. And they hated. Hated beauty. Hated people who cared. Hated decency. Hated job. Hated simple things which can't fight back.

So they fouled the water and stood back and gloried in watching these gentle, helpless little creatures gasp for air, struggle and die to float belly up in the fouled water they had made. And laughed and gloated in their triumph over decency and humanity and the love of God for all living things.

And how long, my friends, do we stand meekly by and let these mongrel rats from the subterranean passages of our sewers triumph over the decent people? When do we rise in our wrath and hang them from the nearest tree? When do we stop favoring the criminal and letting the innocent suffer? When do we become men again, since our police are incapable of protecting us

She is on the staff of the school newspaper, the "Student Prints" and is also the front page editor. She is a member of the Bay High Chorus and of the Girls' Sextet, which has just returned from Vicksburg where the group received a Superior rating.

Miss Koch has presented a science paper to the Mississippi Regional Science and Humanities Symposium and as a junior won third place at the State Science Fair and Second place in the State on the National French test in Level I. This year, while doing independent study in French II, she placed 6th in the State in Level II of the National French test.

As a junior, she served as secretary of the Science Club, and was selected as Outstanding Junior Girl by the faculty.

The two students will be honored at graduation exercises at Tiger Stadium on Friday, May 20, at 8 p.m.

CIGARETTE BEETLE CONTROL IN THE HOME

The cigarette beetle is a pest of stored food products - an old common problem that we have all experienced at one time or another. We found insects in the cereal, so we threw it away. This did not solve the problem.

In Mississippi, stored food pests are economically important and responsible for millions of dollars of loss every year. They reproduce very rapidly and have several to many generations in a year.

FOUR BASIC FUNDAMENTALS IN CONTROLLING THESE PESTS ARE:

1. Locating the damage - Cigarette beetles infest all stores food products such as ice cream cones, cereals, grits, cake mixes, dog food, etc., particularly black and red pepper and spices.

Examine all stored dry food products. If the food material is badly infested, discard the food carefully. If materials have been stored for a long time, they should be carefully inspected.

2. Chemical Treatment - Particles of food and grain may accumulate in cracks and crevices of the storage area where the insects can feed and reproduce. Thus, control measures should be applied before new products are stored in the area.

Spray empty cupboards and food closets with a spray of 1 or 2 percent ronnel (Korlan) or 2 percent malathion, or 0.5 percent diazinon or 0.5 percent chlorpyrifos (Dursban), or 1.1 percent propoxur (Baygon).

3. Regular Inspections - Examine all stored products on a regular basis. Keep all susceptible items in tight containers or screwtop jars. Do not overstock shelves with products, which will not be used frequently or in a short period of time. Protecting food is the first step in preventing and controlling these insects.

4. Cleaning of Shelves - Scrub all cereals, crumbs, Nut meats and other bits of food from cupboard and pantry often. Use a stiff brush and soapy water.

Associated Press cites veteran Waveland reporter

Bill Gaudet, veterans newspaper reporter of Waveland, was commended by the Associated Press Association of Louisiana and Mississippi Daily Newspapers on Sunday, with a second place investigative reporting award.

Meeting in Biloxi, the AP group cited Gaudet for his stories in connection with abuses in the handling of 16th Section lands in Hancock County. The stories appeared under his by-line in the Mississippi Sun for which he is Hancock County representative. Gaudet joined the Sun on commencement of its publication in October of 1973.

Gaudet's first newspaper job was in New Orleans with the old Item-Tribune. He entered the profession following his graduation from New Orleans Academy and Tulane University.

Born Sept. 21, 1908 in St. James, La., he left his native state to work on the New York World upon completing a hitch with the Shreveport Times.

Following an active reporting desk for the "World" he switched over to United Press International (UPI) news service, then known as Universal Service and International News Service and was serving as Southern Division Manager for UPI in New Orleans at the outbreak of World War II.

Gaudet then joined service with Nelson Rockefeller, Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs as a Central American Representative, a position he relinquished at war's end to assume the duties of a roving reporter in Latin America for U.S. News and World Reports.

In 1946 Gaudet founded and published the Latin American Report newsletter, a service he amplified some 10 years later with the publication of his full color Latin American Report magazine.

Retiring from this activity in 1970, he settled permanently in Waveland where he had been a resident since 1946.

He and his wife, Coral - a first grade teacher at Waveland Elementary School, live at 101 Aiken Road, also headquarters for Gaudet's many journalistic and business endeavors.

Church Kindergarten provides training

The First Presbyterian Church Kindergarten began operations in 1970 with the vision of two mothers seeking challenging pre-school activities for their children.

With financial and spiritual support from the members of the church, the Kindergarten began its first year. The teachers donated their services and students were few but in an atmosphere of love the school has grown.

The kindergarten is an important ministry of the church to the community for the glory of the Lord Jesus Christ. It has been established to offer a balanced program of learning and play in a Christian environment. They seek to incorporate God centered, innovative teaching methods, stressing reading and math readiness and to offer a quality curriculum at a minimum of cost. The reading program offered has proven to be high quality and effective.

It is their goal to minister to the spiritual, physical, mental, emotional and social needs of children entrusted to our care.

The church school is completely non-profit, with volunteer members providing all support save teaching and janitorial services. The Kindergarten church committee sets the tuition on the basis of the program's needs. All supplies are furnished by the school and are included in registration and tuition costs. Admittance is on a strictly non-discriminatory basis.

The Kindergarten class is open to students five years of age and the pre-Kindergarten to those four years of age prior to September. Enrollment is limited to 12 students per class, allowing ample time for individual instruction.

Healthful refreshments are provided daily with the children accepting the responsibility for all serving and clean up.

Hours of operation are from 8:30 A.M. through 11:30 A.M. Activities provided include reading and math readiness, Bible stories and catechism, music, art, cooking experience, creative indoor and outdoor play, and unit studies.

Bay woman serves in Army "crisis team"

People in crisis have had reason to thank a Bay St. Louis woman whose dedication to the helping of others has earned her a permanent place on the U.S. Army's Scofield Barracks Crisis Line team.

Belva Larsen, daughter of Mrs. Verdee Bilbo and the late William E. Bilbo of Bay St. Louis, is married to Paul E. Larsen, serving with the U.S. Army in Hawaii. A psychology major at the University of Honolulu, Hawaii, Ms. Larsen is a former graduate of St. Joseph Academy in Bay St. Louis.

Her interest in people led her to volunteer for service with the crisis line, an installation utilized by army personnel and their dependents having problems beyond their immediate ability to solve.

"Our main purpose is to get the person over the hump. We are not concerned with making judgements on the individual.

"Even though we are a complete stranger to the individual we must show we care," she said of her undertaking, she explained.

She said recently that the crisis team not only talks to people over the telephone, although the initial contact is that important call, they also visit the home, though here they travel in twos.

She said her training for the post includes such things as self awareness, self-disclosure, confrontation (confronting the person with his or her problem), mental hygiene, and family counseling.

"Crisis team training also includes the development of listening skills and body language. Most people in crisis are sending two messages to their listener. One is the over message (easily seen), and the other is the covert message (hidden). Sometimes a person is not aware of his or her hidden problem or message."

The crisis line operates 24-hours per day...a service provision that means persons in trouble can always reach someone who says, "Hey, we care!"

Telephone pioneers set meeting

More than 600 persons are expected to attend the annual meeting of the Mississippi Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America in Biloxi on May 13 and 14.

The two-day statewide convention will be held at the Sheraton-Biloxi.

Business meetings, workshops and recreational events will highlight activities. Registration will begin at 1 p.m. on Friday, May 13.

The Pioneers organization is the largest social-industrial association in the world. It has over 490,000 members throughout the United States and Canada. Its members all have 19 years or more of service in the telephone industry and they engage in hundreds of programs to aid physically, socially and emotionally handicapped persons, as well as promote fellowship and loyalty among telephone people. Locally some of these projects include: repair of "talking books" for the blind, making diaper changing tables, building and repairing the climbing monkey and blinking eye dog for the deaf and many others.

The Mississippi Chapter is composed of local councils from Greenwood, Gulfport, Hattiesburg, Jackson, Meridian, Natchez and Tupelo.

The Gulf Coast Council of Telephone Pioneers of America serves the coastal area which includes South Pearl River, Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties.

Consumer's Corner

by Mary Wallace

A weekly column of shopper's hints prepared in your interest by our own home economist.

With warm weather here, it's time to think about getting "back to basics" with home canning. So Food Center is offering a pre-season special on canning supplies this week.

To capture home-grown flavor from your garden, for the fun of sharing with your family and friends, or whatever your reason for preserving foods, successful home canning takes several weeks of advance planning and all your best thoughts. It is most important that you follow reliable canning methods.

Your county extension home economist offers free instructional canning classes in the spring and summer of each year. Watch your local newspaper for announcements about these classes, called "Pocketwatch Food Preservation." This is a great way to learn firsthand the correct way to can.

For more FREE information on home canning, you may also write to me in care of CONSUMER'S CORNER. Home canning is a very rewarding experience. It can be creative and personally satisfying. And for greater canning efficiency, write to me for our helpful tips.

Happy canning!

Mary Wallace always welcomes your questions and suggestions. Write to her at Food Center's Office of Public Affairs / 453 N. Mill Street / Jackson, Miss. 39207.

ON THE BLOCK!

The Grain Fed Heavy Beef you find in our market is Top o' the Grade Beef carefully selected from USDA Choice Beef, the only grade that is available in this quantity to consistently provide the superb quality that we demand. Our beef is chosen on the spot in Iowa by our own team of hard to please selectors. That's why our beef is consistent in quality and quantity at the lowest possible price. Not just on weekends, but every day. It's the best meat value you'll find in any store.

We Put Our Money

HOSTILE CAMP - Number 12 returns dejectedly to Tiger bull pen after being tagged out but finds further trouble awaiting his arrival - along with quite a load of advice for future. Player did well during rest of game and helped team to 11-5 victory.

DAVID MOSS, Waveland Little League Tiger, romps victoriously over plate after hitting home run. Tigers won game 11-5 over Red Sox.

SWING AND A FOUL BALL - Umpire's yelling "Strike!" ball is swinging foul (here hitting down towards home), batter is all teeth and swing, and the catcher is working hard at his profession. Action is part of game on Saturday morning in Elwood Little League Park, Waveland.

BUTTON, BUTTON - Action is heavy around plate as Tigers, with a Red Sox batter caught between home and third, pitch the ball to each other in an attempt at tagging. The Red Sox player dodged and twisted through the throng and managed to be where the ball wasn't long enough to score.

Sox, Astros are Waveland L/L victors

The Waveland Little League Tigers beat the Red Sox 11 to 5, while the Astros whipped the Pirates 20-5, all on Saturday at Elwood Memorial Park.

Eleven teams are now competing for Little League honors in Waveland. Two of these are seniors, four majors, and five minors.

The league, which is building a new concession stand between the Little League and T-League fields, meets every Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Waveland Civic Building.

Silver Creek in Special Olympics

The Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, directed by Dr. Kinsey Stewart, recently took part in the Special Olympics. Their Silver Creek for Exceptional Children, located in Kiln, participated in the Special Olympics in Jackson on April 30.

Silver Creek School had three participants in the Olympics. Robert Rouillier, Larry Pavolini, and Janet Mauffray. Rouillier won Gold Medals for the softball throw and the standing long jump; Pavolini won a Gold Medal for the standing long jump, and Mauffray, a Bronze for a Special Event, the 15 foot crawl.

These participants were coached by Mrs. Joyce Burton, Special Education teacher at the school.

The school expressed their appreciation to the students of St. Stanislaus and Our Lady's Academy in Bay St. Louis who participate in Project Do. These students helped the Silver Creek participants in preparing for the Olympics.

Sanitation

An additional item concerning the senior high school boys' bathroom, and the necessity to increase the number of fixtures therein, was also included but was generally accepted as forming a separate item to the main theme of the report.

Randolph said that all the violations will be corrected but that a lot of equipment had to be replaced due to the fact it was old and worn out.

"The bathrooms were set up to provide for 3-400 students instead of the 12-1300 normally at the school, he said.

Paul Rankin, director, Food and General Sanitation, State Board of Health, Jackson, said that without the certificate of approval the school would lose its free lunch reimbursements, any other funding, and its free surplus commodities.

"They could continue to operate but the school board would have to subsidize the operation or charge a lot more for the meals," Rankin explained.

He said it was necessary to render an annual report on each school's basic sanitation state, state of repair, state of cleanliness, number of facilities, and the like, and that unless his department was assured of compliance with "a reasonable health requirement..." and a "reasonable quality of sanitation..." the school faces a loss of surplus commodities, reimbursements under the free lunch and milk programs, and so forth.

To accomplish such stoppage Rankin indicated his department would contact the federal grants program office with whom they had a working agreement.

Further, such information, when made available to other departments would affect the schools' accreditation, he indicated.

He said his responsibility lay in protecting the students. "These kids are captive customers."

"We offer them no choice."

Cuevas is a member of the Main Street United Methodist Church, where he serves as member of the Administrative Board. He is also a member of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club.

Concerning the promotion of Cuevas, Nash stated, "I am delighted to announce the advancement of Ellis to Editor and Publisher of the Echo. This is a wonderful opportunity for Ellis and I am sure he will do an excellent job in his new position."

"Cuevas said, 'I am looking forward to working with the employees and readers of the Echo and providing our readers and advertisers with the fine product they are accustomed. We will strive to make continuing improvements on our product and offer additional news and service to the people of Hancock County and the surrounding area.'"

At the same time, Cuevas announced the promotion of Echo Managing Editor, Jerry Whittle, as the new General Manager of the local paper.

All Wheat in storage on April 1, totaled 1,307 million bushels, a 48 percent increase from last year and more than double the stocks of 2 years ago. Farm stocks accounted for 510 million bushels, a 49 percent increase from April 1, 1976, while off-farm stocks were 877 million bushels, up 48 percent. Indicated disappearance from all storage positions during January, February and March is 394 million bushels, compared with 449 million bushels a year earlier.

They cannot go down the street to eat somewhere else. They have to eat in the school cafeteria."

He said it was the duty of the health department to make sure such a cafeteria met reasonable sanitation standards, including cleanliness of premise.

"Once these standards are met they would again be certified to participate in the school lunch program," Rankin said.

Earlier health department inspections showed the school scored just 61 of 100 on Jan. 26, 1976, a figure that while improving to 76 of 100 by March of '77, was still below that required for continued, uncensored operations.

News in brief

VOLUSIA COUNTY FGP GRANT EXTENDED

ACTION, the federal government's agency for volunteer service, is adding $116,301 to the Volusia County Foster Grandparents Program budget, and extending the period of its recent grant from June 30, 1977, to March 31, 1978. Paul R. Jones, ACTION's Region IV Director, announced the extension in Atlanta recently.

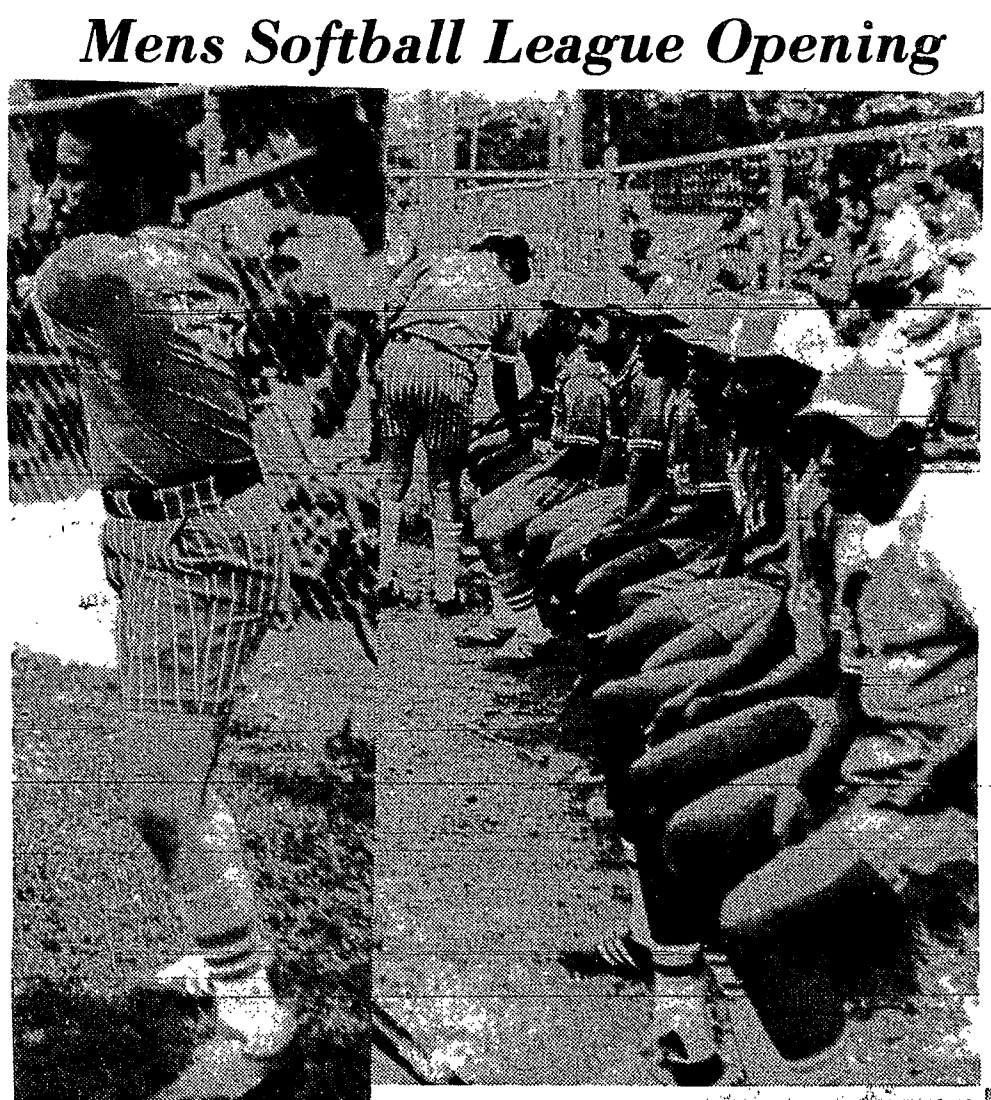

The original continuation of the FGP program here was announced in March and was for the period April 1, 1977 to June 30. The grant then was in the amount of $39,046. Because of restrictions on grant amounts in excess of $150,000, the April continuation was for one fiscal quarter only, thus bringing the grant continuation for the rest of the fiscal year of the program to under the maximum allowable amount.

BAY ST. LOUIS-Police Chief Douglas Williams had the honor of throwing out the first ball to open the 1977 season for the BSL Mens Softball League.

CHARLES JOHNSON, a long time supporter of the Bay St. Louis Mens Softball League, was on hand to sing the National Anthem at the opening game of the 1977 season.

Primary

The closeness of the race can be judged best when realizing only 72 votes separate the top mayoralty contender, Carver, from the low man, Kidd. But, for the second slot in the run-off race the competition is much keener, with a scant 22 votes separating all three contenders. McKenna dragged a mere 15 behind Bennett while Kidd finished just seven back of McKenna.

In the District 1 councilman race, Peter Benvenuti and Donald Favre square off in the second primary having polled 236 and 159 respectively on Tuesday.

To be elected without facing the second primary run-off a candidate must have more votes than the total of the other contestants for the same seat.

With no candidate achieving this simple majority, the two top contestants in each race are then considered to have been elected to the second primary where they run-off to a simple majority of one to gain the general election.

In the general election, those Democrats elected through the primary and second primary election process face the challenge offered by Republican and Independent candidates.

In the Bay Election only one seat was originally scheduled to have a Republican run-off (or primary) election but this intention was nullified when one of the two GOP candidates withdrew, returning to the race as an Independent.

Lucien Kidd, in his first bid for mayor, issued the only request for a recount, and this limited to the mayor's race in the A-K box of Ward 1.

Pressed for reason, Kidd, who had earlier stated he did not intend to question the count, said he believed he should have gotten more votes in this precinct.

Democratic Election Commissioner Patrick Murphy, serving with Commissioners C. C. McDonald and George Stevenson said that due to the closeness of the vote it was ok with him on any boxes candidates wished to look without any further reason.

Murphy had previously sought legal opinions concerning the disposition of challenged ballots not accompanied by an affidavit from City Hall, or an explanation from the poll managers, or both.

Instructions issued to poll workers contained the procedure to be followed in the case of challenged ballots but, in the main, these were not followed.

Where the instruction was adhered to the commission had no difficulty in determining the inclusion or exclusion of votes. The variances led Attorney Joseph Gex to enter into considerable conversation with the attorney general's office in an attempt to produce satisfactory guide lines.

Murphy said, "I hate to think that we will deprive anybody of their vote," and to this end several ballot box purges were delayed while the opinions and viewpoints were determined.

Confusion had arisen at several of the polls on Tuesday following the necessity of the city's having to completely redo the poll books following its redistricting for the election.

County cafeteria supervisor submits recommendations

BY JAKE JACOB

The Hancock County School Board received a list of nine firm recommendations last month from their cafeteria supervisor Mildred Switzer. The recommendations followed a departmental progress report, and an outline of responsibilities. Switzer's report scanned her departments' accomplishments, along with some failures, in participating, menu planning, purchasing, records, personnel, sanitation, policies, and finances.

She said participation by students in the school lunch program had ranged from a high of 84 percent in September of last year to a low of 75 percent in average daily

Previously having elected their commissioners on a city-wide basis, the voters earlier in the year called for a new form of government involving the election of aldermen from districts or wards, necessitating the computation of the new books.

Kidd, who is also city voting registrar, said that many of the errors occurred because people had moved since last registering, resulting in their being recorded at their old address.

While just 34 percent of the electorate voted to change the form of government, Kidd said some 52 percent turned out to vote in the new board of aldermen and mayor.

Some confusion still exists in the minds of voters concerning the new, somewhat more involved system, and in consequence, Fred Wagner, the Republican candidate for Councilman, District 4, received three write-in votes in that precinct as his name failed to show on the Democratic first primary. Wagner, and the other Republicans and Independents, will only be listed on the general election ballots.

A complete recount of the 1, to Z Box of District 3 was undertaken by the election commission after it was determined on Tuesday that no figures had been transferred from the tally sheets to the synoptic form.

After breaking the seal to take out the pink slip on Tuesday, when the initial returns were being calculated, the box was resealed only to have to be broken open again for the white copy of the form.

It was not until after these totals were released, candidates received firm indication of their position in the race as well as the degree of their success at the polls.

A second box, with eight challenged votes, also had the ballots disallowed, due to incorrect procedures being followed.

Where the poll managers correctly informed voters of action to be taken the supporting documentation obtained, and provided details of their initial rulings, the challenges were generally allowed by the commission.

participation in February, 1977. A switch of base for calculations from average daily attendance from average daily enrollment the numbers would climb to an average daily participation percentage of 97 to a low of 88.

The school breakfast program at C. B. Murphy and Gulfview ranged through a high of 76 percent average daily participation to a low of 69 percent ADP based on average daily attendance figures.

Finally, she said, the special milk program being offered at Hancock North Central is being accepted with favorable reaction.

Ms. Switzer reported that menus were being prepared six weeks prior to service but that the addition of a hot sandwich line offered at North Central at the beginning of the school year was abandoned due to production problems.

After reviewing the purchasing system, starting with a check of inventories by individual lunch room managers to the actual "buy," the school cafeteria supervisor detailed the changes in record keeping including the merging of all bank accounts into a single unit.

A summary of the labor costs showed a peak output of $9,211.18 in September of 1976, to a low monthly payout of $8,835.24 in November of that year.

Ms. Switzer told the board the system employed three cafeteria managers, 19 cafeteria workers, seven substitute cafeteria workers, and a part-time bookkeeper.

Wages for the workers through the district had been equalized at $420 for each 20 day period for managers; and $310 over the same span for cafeteria workers. Substitute cafeteria workers are paid on the basis of $15.50 for each day worked.

After citing the number of in-service type workshops attended by one or all of the workers, Ms. Switzer broached the subject of sanitation within the schools, stating that that of C. B. Murphy and Gulfview was excellent but at Hancock North Central, "a low rating is scored regularly."

She called the attention of board members to a letter from the county health department stating that a certificate of approval would not be granted the school next year unless a punch list of violations was corrected.

Concluding with her financial records, Ms. Switzer said, "Records point out the way you are going financially as well as show where you have been. They are blueprints for future action, based on the past."

Her bank balances showed an increase of net balance to the system compared to the 1976 totals with $34,939.50 showing on the bottom line compared to $28,164.19 for '76, both at the close of business on the last working day in February. This, she indicated, in spite of rising food costs and labor rate hikes.

Her nine recommendations included the need to: "Initiate a nutrition education program in all schools coordinating the teaching effort of the faculty with the physical facilities available in the cafeterias in order to make nutrition information more meaningful to the child;

"Make an intense effort to establish friendly communications between cafeteria personnel and their captive customers to develop a better understanding of the needs and desires of both groups;

"Broaden bid buying practices of selected food items to secure the lowest price possible for quality goods;

"Refine cafeteria record keeping to present the most accurate data possible;

"Make a strenuous effort to improve the Hancock North Central Cafeteria facility by systematically correcting the problem areas cited by the Hancock County Health Department in their letter of March 29, 1977;

"Utilizing nonfood assistance foods, increase all cafeteria equipment inventories to better meet their needs as determined by a thorough analysis of current inventories by the cafeteria supervisor and the cafeteria manager;

"Provide training opportunities for all cafeteria personnel to increase their expertise in performing their jobs in order that work will be accomplished more efficiently and economically;

"Update cafeteria policies to provide cafeteria employees with a clearer interpretation of the goals and objectives of the Hancock County School District, Board of Education, as related to the School Lunch Program. Provide cafeteria employees with a handbook prior to the 1977-78 school year;

"Define program accounting more accurately in order that a better interpretation of cafeteria expenditures can be made. This includes reevaluation of indirect as well as direct cost expenditures."

(Continued from Page 1) development of a 24 and 31 foot LaFitte skiff. Future plans, according to Brennan, call for expansion into the 33 and 44 foot sailboat classes, plus the undertaking of contract work.

The new plant manager said immediate hires will include carpenters and fiberglass personnel.

Asked if females can apply for such work, Brennan said, "Yes, very much so." He said it is the finding in the trade that women have more patience than men in fiber glass application.

"Peak employment figures," to be arrived at as production increases, "should be in the region of 80 or 90 people," the plant manager said.

Brennan said that most production items will be shipped from Covington with the balance of such requirement being provided by Halter.

He said work on outfitting a complete mill shop would be the first item on his agenda supplemented by the movement of moulds, spray equipment, and the like.

Randolph washes hands of school sanitation lapse

BY JAKE JACOB

County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph said this week that his authority over the non-certified personnel at Hancock North Central, or any other of the county schools, had been nullified by resolution of the school board last June.

response when questioned on his actions concerning the unsanitary conditions in the school's lunch room, conditions for which the school faces possible loss of lunch room subsidies and accreditation.

Complaints concerning conditions in the public restrooms inside the school's gymnasium arose April 21, at which time Randolph said that budget restrictions had resulted in the board hiring some of its janitorial force for less than a full school year.

The superintendent said he could not direct or supervise the non-certified personnel's work at any of his schools as such was the responsibility of the principal.

"I objected to the breakdown in line of command at the time," Randolph said.

He said he was instituting a program of renovations at North Central that should result in it requalifying for Department of Health clearance for the upcoming school year.

Compretta

(Continued from Page 1) each of you contact the local schools in your district and determine exactly what procedures are followed for student purchases, what student fees are being charged, and what is the status for the provision of instructional materials, including securing precise information on the amount of instructional materials."

Other state representatives selected to serve by Rogers are: Tommy Horne, J. D. Price, Harold Fortenberry, Horace Buckley, John Sharp Holmes, and W. A. Wilkerson.

He again stressed that with budget time in the offing he was once more faced with the situation of principals recommending non-certified personnel directly to the board without him being able to report on his views on individual competency or attitude.

At the time of passage of the controversial motion, board proxy Monvel Cuevas said, "I think you should never break the chain of command but I would also like to see how this system will work."

Randolph said Tuesday that lacking authority to direct the personnel concerned North Central School had fallen short of all board of health requirements.

He agreed with complainants that the school "...is dirty and in a mess."

He said that while he could hopefully correct the board of health's punch list of equipment violations, without authority to hire and direct the non-certified personnel he could not guarantee the school retaining its certification.
